

I'm quite happy with how the fund has performed. Quite satisfied that our CPP money is doing quite well, so.

Generally CPP I think is doing a great job. I think we're very, very lucky in Canada to have a pension plan like the CPP and it being as successful and as secure as it is.

---

CPP investments definitely is doing a great job so far to manage their investments in terms of sustainability. And I think a lot of companies moving forward will need to start focusing more on that if they want to be included in the fund.

---

Well, I'm retired. And I'm doing okay. So I don't have any complaints against the pension plan.

---

Even throughout the economic difficulties that we've had throughout the pandemic, the fund has remained stable and that really does demonstrate to me that regardless of what's going to happen, if there's any fund that's going to do well, it'll be the CPP.

---

They seem to be very wisely invested. They seem to get a reasonably good, conservative return on their investments so I'm not in the slightest bit worried.

---

Oh, I think CPP is absolutely important for future generations.
